

Children The World Over Choose Learning Over Lazing This Summer At Helen Doron!

Learning English was the most popular holiday pastime for children attending the Helen Doron Early English "I am the World" holiday program being held in several countries around the world this summer.

(PRWEB) August 30, 2007 -- "I am the World" is a unique summer English learning program that is designed to delight and educate children aged 4 to 8. The program engages children in fun activities that include fascinating facts about the world we live in, broadens cultural awareness, and of course teaches English - the language of science, business and academia around the globe.

Children Can Learn English and Still Enjoy a Family Vacation:

Children love participating in the "I am the World" holiday program which is filled with exciting hands-on learning projects all conducted in English. The program is unique in the fact that attendance is flexible. Children can opt in and out of the activities all summer long, as it suits their parents, so they can enjoy going on a family vacation and still have fun learning English too.

A Fantastic World Wide Adventure in English:

The children participate in a fun-filled virtual round-the-world hot air balloon ride. They make their own passports to visit all the different countries, and enjoy traditional music, prepare their own ethnic foods, costumes and crafts. Working with atlases, globes and a colorful array of visual aids, the children learn to recognize well-known geographical features, regional animals and famous landmarks around the world.

Group Fun and Individual Attention:

The "I am the World" program provides children with lots of action including arts and crafts, plus organized group activities such as drama, games, dance and more - all using English. The children are continually introduced to something different, so they're never bored. The trademark of all Helen Doron Early English programs is that they are carried out within an encouraging, relaxed and joyful environment; with plenty of group fun and individual attention for each child.

The Success of Helen Doron Early English Programs:

"Our success has been built-up over 20 years, with more than 400 Helen Doron Early English Learning Centers worldwide. Our system brings real results through a range of exciting learning programs offered all year long and devised by pedagogic and linguistics experts." explains Anne Gordon, Vice President International Business Development. "Thanks to our well-trained and dedicated teaching staff and original learning materials and music, the Helen Doron Group is able to honor a steadfast commitment to helping children around the world achieve their full potential in an environment of fun and encouragement.

Helen Doron Early English offers a total of 10 courses in English for children: 7 years of spoken English (some courses with optional reading and writing also) for infants and younger children, and 3 years of speaking, reading and writing for older children. The program provides everything a child needs in order to speak English with the pronunciation, grammar, and vocabulary of a mother tongue. Older children are prepared on a level comparable to international examinations, while retaining the fun and natural manner of learning that is unique to Helen Doron.
